This recently completed installation is for St. Thomas More Church on the campus of St. John's University, Queens, New York. The university's art committee selected Sylvia Nicolas to design and paint the windows in the main body of the church and John Calligan to create windows for a chapel and two carved glass panels. All of the works were coordinated, fabricated and installed by Rohlf's Studio. The project, originally scheduled for two and a half years, was completed four months early.
